Medicine Uses: What is Adderall?

Adderall is a prescription medication that is commonly used to treat attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) and narcolepsy. It is a central nervous system stimulant that works by increasing the levels of certain chemicals in the brain that are responsible for impulse control and hyperactivity. Adderall can help improve focus, concentration, and overall cognitive function in individuals with ADHD.

How Does Adderall Work?

Adderall contains a combination of amphetamine and dextroamphetamine, which are stimulant drugs that affect the brain's neurotransmitters. These chemicals help to regulate mood, attention, and impulse control, making Adderall an effective treatment for ADHD and narcolepsy. By increasing the levels of dopamine and norepinephrine in the brain, Adderall can help individuals with ADHD stay focused and alert throughout the day.
