What Is Adderall and Why Is It Prescribed?

Adderall is a combination of two central nervous system stimulants — amphetamine and dextroamphetamine. It works by influencing the chemicals in the brain and nerves that contribute to hyperactivity and impulse control. Doctors prescribe Adderall primarily for:

- ADHD (Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder): Helps improve attention, concentration, and control impulsive behaviors.
- Narcolepsy: Aids individuals struggling with excessive daytime sleepiness and sudden sleep attacks.

Adderall is available in two main forms — immediate-release (IR) and extended-release (XR) — depending on the duration of effectiveness required.
